WEALTH IN GRAIN

R. H. MUNSON TELLS OF PROSPERITY IN SOUTH DAKOTA WHEAT FIELDS

R. H. Munson of the Munson Drug store cigar stand returned to Glendale last week after a sojourn in South Dakota, where he has several valuable wheat ranches. Mr. Munson describes the prosperity of that part of the country as being remarkable.

"Wheat," said Mr. Munson, "is not as high as it was last year when the war sent prices soaring, but it is high enough to make wheat-growing profitable. I see that today it touched the dollar mark. That is very gratifying to those who are interested in the cultivation of this world necessity."

I have just returned from a visit to my various ranches in South Dakota. Those ranches are situated in the north central section of the state. One of them is near Redfield, close to the prosperous city of Aberdeen. I have 320 acres there. Another is at Oeida, and still another at Blunt. The great output of those ranches is naturally wheat. South Dakota is a great wheat country. The soil is a rich sandy loam, just the strong kind of soil that wheat needs. Then there is a lot of sunlight and heat, both of which are necessary to profitable wheat growing. I work these ranches on shares, which is the common practice in South Dakota.

The wheat fields of South Dakota are often of enormous extent. While I was in that country a man named George Harris went out into his wheat field near Groton, and wandering along heedlessly among the tall grain, lost his way. He was actually lost a whole night, vainly trying to trace his way back among the mazes of the growing wheat. It was only after great difficulty that he managed to find his way out and get back to his home. That is not a mere story; it is reality. Those wheat ranches are often of enormous extent.

"I notice that the government report estimated that South Dakota would produce 319,000,000 bushels of grain this year; but that is a very conservative estimate. There will be a much larger yield than is indicated in those figures. That, of course, means prosperity for the country there. Indeed the whole of South Dakota is prosperous.

"One peculiarity of the country is that it is largely settled by communities of different nationalities. In one part you will find groups of Germans, in another Russians, in still another Swedes. They are all active and industrious and are making money. The value of the land is steadily increasing. You can still buy land in certain parts of South Dakota as low as $15, while a great deal of it is held as high as $200 an acre. The land in the Black Hills country is not of any great agricultural value, and is therefore held at low prices. In the neighborhood of Redfield, where I have one of my ranches, it is held at from $60 to $100 an acre; in Oneida and Blunt, $25 to $75.

"Quite a good deal of land is now set to alfalfa and there is profitable hog raising. The land in the southeastern part of the state, near Sioux Falls and Yankton, is very rich and fertile, being the same soil as in its neighboring territory in Iowa.

"In the course of my travels I went to the state of Utah, to the town of Logan, where Mrs. Munson has been visiting her father and mother. During that time I was presented by my wife with a very fine baby girl. Both the child and her mother are getting along nicely. I stayed with them for some time, and during my visit went over into Idaho, to Pocatello and Idaho Falls, where I found business quite lively. Indeed all over I found everybody confident that the tide had turned and that things would live up from now on."

TROPICO AIDS AT FIRE

BLAZE ON NORTH LOUISE SHOWS VERY POOR WATER PRESSURE

Once more the necessity for a pumping fire engine in Glendale has been demonstrated. Sunday morning at 9:20 an alarm of fire was sent from the home of F. W. Shepard, 420 North Louise. The Tropico fire department was also notified sometime later and arrived on the scene, where it did excellent work. The water pressure in that district was found to be exceedingly poor, and had the fire been of a more serious nature it would have been difficult to handle it.

It is not known how the fire started. Mrs. Shepard was working in the rear of the house when she noticed smoke pouring out of the door. She ran out and called her husband, who was in the garden. Rushing into the house, Mr. Shepard found that the flames had obtained a strong hold on the building. He picked up the cat and ran out with it.

Making a further attempt to save some valuables, Mr. Shepard was unable to make his way into the interior on account of the flames. By this time he realized that the fire was beyond control and he ran out and sent the alarm that brought the Glendale fire department on the spot in a few minutes. By that time the whole roof of the little house had fallen in and little could be done. The fire department found the pressure so poor that but little could be effected with it.

Someone had sent a call for the Tropico engine, which arrived quickly and soon had a considerable stream of water playing on the flames, and speedily aided in getting the fire extinguished. However, the building had become a total wreck and all the furniture was destroyed. The owner of the house is W. S. Gregory, who has an office in the H. W. Hellman building, Los Angeles. Both house and furniture were partly insured. Damage to the house is estimated at $700 and to the furniture $600.

Superintendent Lankford and his men, E. Potter, C. Potter, Olivas, Sinclair and Patrolman Laurance, made a good fight against the flames, but found their best efforts handicapped for lack of a pumping engine. It is feared that some of these days, before bonds have been voted for the purpose of providing an engine of capacity sufficient to deal with fires, some serious blaze may strike the city.

In the afternoon at 4:15 another fire call brought out the department again. This time the fire was in a lot at 420 Cedar street. The grass fire there was easily extinguished with the apparatus at command, but it is pointed out that there is danger that some time when the department is handling some such affair, another and more serious fire may occur, and with only imperfect appliances for fire-fighting a serious fire might gain the upper hand before aid could be given. Superintendent Lankford, Firemen Potter and Olivas and Patrolman Laurance handled the grass fire effectively.

Shattered Austrian armies are making desperate stand before Przemysl.

REAL ESTATE COMING BACK TO ITS OWN

J. B. Doner of this city reports the sale of his 35-acre tract near Culver City, on the Venice Short Line, to C. W. Brockman of Calexico, Cal., the price paid being $31,000, practically all cash. Mr. Doner bought 50 acres in January, 1914, and subdivided it in half-acre lots. He sold about one-third of these and now has closed a deal with Mr. Brockman for the remainder. Mr. Brockman makes his money in the Imperial valley and believes in spreading it out. He is a business man and knows a good thing when he sees it. He, with his family, has been spending their vacation at Redondo Beach, and at present are visiting his brother, L. E. Brockman, at 452 East Second street.

AFTER DOG POISONERS

Recently several parties in the neighborhood of West Third street have lost valuable dogs. One man has lost two. The dogs were killed by poison and the feeling in the neighborhood is very bitter. It is believed that some party in that neighborhood is systematically poisoning the household animals there. Complaints have been made to the police and investigation is being made.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The Sabre liner, Sant Ana is on fire in mid-Atlantic, 1000 miles east from this city. The Sant Ana carries 1764 passengers including many Italian reservists who were going home to fight. It is believed that German or Austrian spies may have started the fire. The departure of the vessel from New York was delayed one day while it was thoroughly searched for suspicious characters. The hold was carefully examined lest bombs should have been concealed there.

Many women and children are imperiled by the fire. Since midnight when the Sant Ana sent out a wireless asking for assistance nothing has been heard from the burning vessel.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The services yesterday were favored by some Chicago visitors, who added much to the spiritual enjoyment of the day, as they took a conspicuous part. At the morning hour the Misses Marquis rendered a beautiful duet, "The Earth Is the Lord's," and in the evening Miss Marquis sang "The Ninety and Nine" very feelingly. Mrs. J. D. Cole, our new acquisition in a musical way, also gave a very fine solo at each service, in the morning singing "Whom Not Having Seen, We Love," and at night, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." Altogether this made a day of unusually fine music, which was much enjoyed and appreciated.

Rev. Mr. Marquis, a young man in the ministry, occupied the pulpit with the pastor and offered prayer, both morning and evening.

The sermon, on "A Faithful Servant," was an exhortation to cultivate those habits and qualities which make a Christian the devoted, zealous follower he should be. Most prominent among those, of course, are daily reading of the Word of God, frequent and sincere prayer, attendance at the regular services of the church, and willing, free support of the church in financial way.

The congregation loses two faithful families by letter—J. W. Stickley and family having removed to Santa Barbara, and W. W. Werden and wife to the Imperial Valley.

An evangelistic campaign of three or four weeks is being planned for next month by "the board," which will probably begin about the 10th. The evangelist has not yet been definitely decided on.

A very interesting topic is that for the prayer meeting on Wednesday evening, viz.: "The Church's Duty to the Immigrant." Be there and add your thought on this question, which will soon be one of the most vital to California that we will have to solve.

FAREWELL PARTY

The farewell party given by Mrs. J. T. Crampton and Mrs. George Banock for Mrs. Henry Horn, at the home of Mrs. Crampton, 1011 Chestnut street, was largely attended and proved a lively affair from start to finish.

The despondent guest of honor was not allowed to give way to her feelings one moment, for a ridiculous bean game provoked screams of laughter. Mrs. Horn won the prize. After this the guests were all given slips of paper and asked to help compile a prescription for a "cure for the blues," to be taken by her during her trip to her new home in Indianapolis. The result was a collection of mirth-provoking ditties, all of which were enclosed in an envelope, with the prescribed dose written thereon, and presented to her.

Delicious refreshments were then served, after which all joined hands and sang "Auld Lang Syne."

LAICHINGERS HONORED

GARVANZA AND GLENDALE FRIENDS UNITE IN UNIQUE CELEBRATION

Friday evening, Sept. 10, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Laichinger, 132 East Second street, occurred a most pleasant surprise party, given by their friends in the Garvanza Congregational church (their former church home), gathering in a good-fellowship remembrance of Mr. and Mrs. Laichinger's twentieth anniversary of their wedding, which occurred in Detroit, Mich., Sept. 10, 1895.

The plans were laid so nicely that within a short time after the arrival of the party and the secret was out, decorations of the rooms were completed. One unique decoration was in the music room, it being trimmed with the photographs of Mr. and Mrs. Laichinger separately from their babyhood up to date; also their parents and family photos, making a "family room." One group of pictures showed the Simpson Methodist Episcopal church, Detroit, wherein the wedding took place. Mr. Laichinger was the musical director in the church at that time, and Mrs. Laichinger, then Miss Jessie A. Russell, was teacher in the Sunday school. This picture was grouped with the wedding certificate and the photos of the pastor, Rev. Simpson W. Horner, who officiated at the ceremony, and his wife, who was organist, together with the photographs of the ladies and gentlemen of honor, flower girls, etc. All in all, this room was a very interesting study.

The evening's entertainment was opened with the company singing the Doxology, followed by a prayer by Rev. W. S. Mottern of Glendale Lutheran church, which was followed by a prayer by Rev. J. S. Thomas of Garvanza Congregational church. The program of the evening then followed. Miss Elizabeth Mottern of Glendale rendered a splendid piano solo, followed by "But the Lord Is Mindful of His Own," her pure, sweet soprano voice giving the piece its true musical worth. Miss Madeline Weaver of Garvanza played a difficult piano solo splendidly, following with a laughable college song. Elwood Ingledue pleased the gathering very much with a couple of violin solos. The "Traumeri" being very nicely played, Russell Laichinger surprised his friends by his splendid rendering of several band marches on the piano, also playing a piano and organ duet with Mr. Laichinger at the organ.

Mr. Laichinger gave several organ numbers and acted as accompanist of the evening.

Light refreshments were served, and after the song, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," the gathering reluctantly broke up, voting it a success in capital letters, and carrying away with them the knowledge and assurance that at the home of the Laichingers the latchstring is always out and ready for their friends to pull.

GLENDALE THEATER CLOSES

After a brave struggle with impossible conditions, Mr. Mohler, who recently reopened the Glendale Theater, has been compelled to close down. From the first it was manifest that the public was either indifferent to the theater or that the theater itself was not so situated as to command a clientele, or possibly that Glendale has sufficient picture theaters to supply all its demands for that class of amusement. Whatever may have been the reason, the Glendale theater did not receive support enough to warrant Mr. Mohler in sinking any more money in the enterprise.

The theater-going public was given a chance to decide the fate of the theater, and their verdict was unfavorable. The service in the theater was excellent, the music was good, the place was attractive, but as there was no business it has been compelled to close. Mr. Mohler has the profound sympathy of those who know him and also know the effort he made to make his enterprise a success.

LEARNING INDUSTRIAL INDEPENDENCE

Out of the many evils of the great war one good, at least, has come to the United States. Up to this time this country has been relying on Germany to supply it with dyestuff. It has been imagined that it was impossible for anyone in the United States to enter this field and compete with the German chemists on their own ground. That, of course, was a vast mistake. There is just as much natural capacity for chemical research and invention in the United States as in Germany; but it has been denied an outlet. Perhaps the manufacturers of the United States took it for granted that there would never be any necessity for competing with Germany in this particular line. The war has shown the folly of such an idea. The Germans themselves are striking examples of the wisdom of being able to manufacture everything a country needs within its own borders. They have taught this country that lesson also.

Thrown back on its own resources the United States has speedily shown that it possesses the inventive and original genius that the Germans imagined they alone possessed. Dr. Thomas S. Norton, the government expert who has been conducting an investigation into the chemical and color situation of the country, states that another new dyestuff invention or process has been discovered. This time the process relates to sulphur black. This is a direct black superior to the usual aniline black now on the market. It has never been manufactured successfully before for commercial use.

What constitutes the great value of this discovery is the fact that it undoubtedly is merely the forerunner of a great many other discoveries that will place this country in a position of independence of foreign manufacturers by the time the war is over.

Herein is seen the wisdom of the government in setting capable experts to work on these lines. To be independent of Germany and all other countries in this and other directions means that the balance of trade now so strongly in favor of the United States cannot be taken away from it by reason of large payments that might have to be made for articles of foreign manufacture. In this way the war is a blessing in disguise to the United States.

MEXICO'S SAD CONDITION

"Woe unto that country whose prince is a child," was the saying of the wise man of old. With much truth the saying can be applied to Mexico although the would-be ruler of that unfortunate land, Carranza, is a man of years. In everything else he is a veritable infant. Vain, capricious, petulant, unstable, boastful, Carranza seems to combine in his single personality the worst features of bad rulers. Villa, although a man of no education has much more common sense than Carranza. The would-be ruler of the unfortunate Mexicans recently wrote a letter to the Pan-American nations, who are striving to bring back peace to the southern republic, that shows him to be a man of empty head and volatile tongue.

There is nothing of the statesman about Carranza; but there is a very great deal of the fool. At one moment he is so dictatorial in his reply that not even Diaz in the heyday of his power and privilege would have dreamed of sending out such a self damning message to an outside power. It is a thousand pities that among all the aspirants to supreme power in Mexico at the present moment there is not one of sufficient outstanding ability who could be intrusted with the difficult task of forming a government and ruling the state. Villa, if he were a man of education, might be strong enough to hold the position; but he, himself, knows his own deficiencies and is credited with the acknowledgement that he is not fit to be the head of the government. Unless some strong man should suddenly develop there is but little promise of any stability in a government formed by Carranza.

Carranza, in his recent letter, showed himself to be pitifully ignorant of the power and resources of the United States. His density is only equalled by his pomposity and his prevarication. Like Dogberry, he seems to be fairly longing to be written down in the category of fools. In the compass of his letter, not a very long epistle, he has shown most amazing misinformation concerning the United States, its aims and plans, and given his enemies ample proof of his incapacity. It is to be hoped for Mexico's sake that he has irretrievably destroyed his chances of becoming president.

RISING IMPORTANCE OF WOMEN

It may seem strange to assert that women are the chief cause why the war in Europe does not come to an end; yet it is seriously stated by competent European authorities that the war would have ceased from lack of material ere this were not small armies of women engaged in supplying the places of men who are at the front. The war has compelled the different states of Europe to admit women into spheres of economic life from which they were formerly excluded. The States at war have invited their women to join in the work that is keeping the war going. In all the warring countries, even in England, women are engaged in forging and filling the shells.

France and Germany, both of which compel their men to go to the front by the conscription system, are using women as the principal munitions manufacturers. It is stated that 500,000 women in Germany are turning out munitions of war. They have mastered the delicate technical processes and are able to observe the minute measurement standards necessary in munition production. The war could not go on without them. They are keeping Germany alive. In the factories and in the fields of agriculture they are doing the work formerly done by men.

This is the era of the woman in Europe. The war has done for them what fifty years of peace could not have accomplished. Woman in Europe is now in a position to achieve for herself economic independence. She is now on the eve of forcing her way into the exclusive halls of politics whence she has hitherto been excluded. She has the chance to show that with her aid some saving grace may be instilled into the dead arena of European civilization.

Already the thinkers of the world are asking what women will do with this wonderful opportunity. Will she infuse sense, moderation and idealism into the dry bones of European countries and will she be able to bring about the desirable conclusion that there shall be no more war? There are some who think that such will be the effect of woman's influence on the old world; others again are not so sanguine. What is certain is that much of the future of Europe is in woman's hands.

WILLIAM SPROULE, PRESIDENT OF THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC GIVES SOME STATISTICS

It is often believed by people that the railroads of the country are owned by a small and select section of capitalists and that this ring practically does what it likes with the interests committed to its charge. William Sproule, president of the Southern Pacific railway, speaking before the American bankers' association at Seattle the other day, made it appear that the facts were otherwise.

"The railroads," he said, "are owned by a great army of the people who have put their savings into railroad shares. He added that there are more than 250,000 miles of steam railroads in the United States and that they employ 1,750,000 persons. This figures roughly one shareholder to three employees. The 6,000 shareholders have nearly a billion dollars invested in the securities of the systems.

Mr. Sproule mentioned these figures in an address on the subject of the railroads and the people. He said the primary relation of railroads and the people is that the railroads sell transportation to the people. The common notion was that the people had nothing more to do with it than to obtain their transportation at the lowest price. Mr. Sproule showed that they have a great deal more to do with it. Hundreds of thousands of people had a personal interest in the railroads, he said.

After speaking of the increasing burdens being placed on railroads, he remarked that the railroads expect to pay their share of the taxes, and added: "It is in the public interest that the margin between operating income and operating expenses be wide enough to enable just taxes to be paid and just compensation given to employees without impairing the physical property and equipment, which should be maintained at a high standard of excellence."

AMERICA'S FIRST APARTMENT HOUSE

WOMAN MAYOR—WHY NOT?

The ancient Pueblos built their homes in the side walls of great valleys, which prehistoric floods washed to the depth sometimes of thousands of feet in the great plateau of the American Southwest. Such a valley, for example, is the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, but the Grand canyon was not frequented by the cliff-dwellers. Under overhanging cliffs, protected alike from furious sun above and from human enemies below, they perched their valley and cities, approachable only by difficult trails and series of ladders.

In many cases the word dwelling is misleading, for most of these buildings were villages. Spruce Tree House, for instance, was undoubtedly a town of importance, or, if you please, it was America's pioneer apartment house, harboring at least 350 inhabitants.

UNUSUAL VACATION ENDS

School is in the thoughts of young Pueblos today, following an unusual vacation. There were few idle hands and minds in Pueblo this summer. Superintendent F. D. Slutz of the public schools had arranged employment for hundreds at vocations they hoped to follow in later life.

Pueblo's "vacation in the vacation" idea is being copied all over the country. Each year in the late spring blanks are sent to business men of the city asking what work they have available for a boy during the summer. The replies are filed and a search is made for the boy to fill the position. All principals and teachers co-operate in the plan. If several students are fit for the same position they are told to call on the employer, who is given his pick.

The result has been very encouraging. Many high school boys have received help toward a college education in this way.

To help children choose an occupation for life, a vocational guidance course has been prepared and made a part of the English work in all grades from the seventh through high school. Essays on the city's industries, successful business men and business topics are regularly assigned. Prominent business men address the boys and girls at specified times.

At first we thought those "Cuban Alpargatas" the Commerce department has been yelping about must be Cuban cops, because they were described as possessing "a top of solid leather and a soul of hemp." However, they are just shoes.

ONE OR THE OTHER

There are either some excellent crops or some excellent liars throughout the Northwest. Among the recent things Northwest newspaper correspondents have reported are:

Watertown, S. D.—Chased by a bull, John Davis sought safety in the upper reaches of a cornstalk.

Huron, S. D.—Hens are laying, because crops are growing so fast they make a buzzing noise that keeps hens awake.

Hettinger, N. D.—The oats crop is so large that when Olaf Olsen attempted to put a bushel of oats into a bushel measure, much was left over.

Breckinridge, Minn.—No. 1 hard wheat is so hard that a sledge, being used to crack a kernel on a sidewalk, glanced and went through a plate-glass window across the street.

Churches Ferry, N. D.—Business men are using kernels of wheat for paperweights, "Bumper Crop 1915" being engraved on each kernel.

CLEAN UP!

The eradication of filth is in part the duty of every citizen and each should see that his own surroundings are in a satisfactory condition. He should guard against carelessness in the maintenance and preparation of food and withhold his patronage from those who disregard the rules of cleanliness, remembering that the foods which are most subject to contamination are milk and its products, oysters and vegetables. The role of flies in the dissemination of the infection is now generally recognized. The elimination of such fly-breeding places as garbage, manure and filth is most essential, but the proper screening of houses and the adoption of destructive measures are also of great prophylactic value. If, in spite of these precautions, the disease develops, it then becomes the duty of every citizen to implicitly follow the instructions given in order that the safety of others may not be imperiled, bearing in mind the fact that every case of typhoid fever is due to someone's ignorance or carelessness. No higher duty of citizenship than this can be conceived.

BIGGEST ROAD CONGRESS THE COUNTY HAS EVER SEEN

OAKLAND, CAL., Sept. 13.—What gives all indications of being the greatest assemblage of road builders ever seen in America opened here today under the name of the Pan-American road congress. Organizations participating are the American Road Builders' association, the American Highway association, the Pacific Highway association and the Tri-State Good Roads association of Washington, Oregon and California. The congress has drawn thousands of delegates. Their interests include materials, methods of building, maintenance, financing, engineering and educating the public.

Representatives of Canadian provinces and of Central and South American republics give the congress its Pan-American character, but the greatest interest lies in suggestions for national and state road-building programs.

Delegates bring the word that almost every section of the country is becoming aroused to the necessity for and the value of good roads. The chief question in most communities appears to be methods of financing—whether bonds or direct taxes are preferable; how long bonds should run, and the matter of sinking funds and bond retirements.

Governor Charles W. Gates of Vermont is chairman of the executive committee in charge of the convention, other members being Major W. W. Crosby of Maryland, James H. McDonald of Connecticut, J. E. Penneybacker of the United States office of public roads, and E. L. Powers, editor of Good Roads.

PORTO RICO HAS JITTERY WAR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—A real war between jitneys and a regular railroad has developed down in Porto Rico. Up to two months ago the railroad had a monopoly of the passenger business between Catano and Bayamon, which amounted to half a million persons a year. Then the pesky jitney made its appearance. Now the "fliers" are carrying just half the traffic.

Although the jitney fare was ten cents, the same as the railroad, the buses proved so popular with the people that the railroad was forced to reduce its fare. The trip soon became a sporting proposition, the jitneys racing with the trains, and often beating them to the finish.

Now it is announced the railroad will be electrified and all the old equipment replaced with modern cars and appliances. These improvements will cost many thousands of dollars, not counting what the rivalry already has cost the road in traffic shrinkage.

WAR ODDITIES

The Italian king will probably decorate an Italian naval surgeon who bound up the stump of a sailor's severed arm while both were in the water after the torpedoing of the cruiser Amalfi.

Residents in the vicinity of Stratford Shoal, New York, probably will not be pleased to learn that the government has just spent $6000 making the foghorn at that point much louder.

HIGH PRIVATES IN WAX

Soldiers and civilians alike who failed to see O'Leary, Belcher and Dwyer during the brief sojourn of the three privates who have won the Victoria Cross on the battlefield and become famous, are flocking to Mme. Taussaud's famous London wax-works.

These men who have returned to the trenches are there—in wax.

General Botha, who conquered German Southwest Africa, is also there. The waifer is also present, his uniform replaced. He is seen glaring at his friend, the sultan of Turkey.

Bank of Glendale

California laws regulating this bank are among the strongest in the United States. In these laws are defined just what loans a bank may make. Regular examinations are made by the state banking superintendent and the Los Angeles Clearinghouse examiner. The funds are protected by a good screw door safe in a vault fortified with electric burglar alarm, in addition to being insured against burglary or hold-up. All officers are bonded.

The Bank of Glendale makes no loans to any of its officers or directors. Disinterestedness in those having care of your money is thus assured.

FORTUNES OF WORK

PITIFUL STORY OF A LUMBER-CAMP WORKER AND HIS FAMILY

Desperately ill from exposure and starvation after trudging 200 miles through alternate stretches of dusty, sun-scorched roads and flooded areas, Robert Powell, a lumber-camp worker, his wife, four small children and a grown daughter, the latter deserted by her husband, were discovered near death in an abandoned negro shanty on the outskirts of Natchez. Welfare workers are bringing them back to health and recording their story for preservation. When they have recovered so that they may trudge again, they probably will set forth once more on their wanderings in search of "their opportunity to toil."

Kind-hearted settlers living near the cabin discovered the Powell family all lying on the damp clay floor of the shack, which had been deserted even by the negro farm tenants.

They gave them warm food and heard them recite their story in colorless, sing-song fashion. The Powells were too discouraged, their inspiration was too far gone for them to show animation even in the narration of their sufferings and privation.

Powell, employed as a mill hand, received $1.50 a day, a big wage for the Powell family and thousands of other such families in the South, where negro labor is cheap. But he was "subject to the fortunes of the industry" and work therefore was not steady. Sometimes he would present himself in the morning eager for work, and after awaiting the pleasure of the foreman would be told there was "nothing doing" that day. At other times notices were posted and read aloud to him and his fellow-workers that work would be stopped for several days, even for weeks. The Powells were unable to save money.

One day a notice was posted that the plant had been abandoned and that no further labor would be required. The Powells decided it were better to move and starve on the road than to stay where they were and face it as a certainty. They moved, carrying their few miserable possessions with them and taking turns at "toting" the youngest children, mere infants. All summer the search for work continued. Powell was weak and emaciated and obtained very little employment, but he managed to earn food for his road party as they went along. Then they reached Natchez and, having had no work and consequently no food for several days, they balked at nothing, not even the abandoned negro shanty, as a place to rest and fade into death.

Powell is working now, but his employment is not steady, and besides, he is only one of hundreds here in Natchez, so no individual attention can be paid to his case after his family is lifted from its present plight.

Portland has a merchant who steals from a blind rival and sells the loot in his own store. Other places that have claimed the meanest man will now take a back seat.

LA CRESCENTA

Mrs. J. Lewenstein and daughter, Miss Ethel, recently returned from a three weeks' visit at Sacramento, San Francisco exposition, San Rafael, Berkeley and Oakland. Mrs. Lewenstein and daughter reported a most enjoyable time and were very much pleased with the fair.

F. W. Caldwell and daughter, Miss Mae, spent from Tuesday to Sunday evening at Alamitos Bay.

Miss Gwendolyn Clafin spent Saturday and Sunday at Redondo Beach.

Miss Dorothy and Marguerite Cloud, Ethel Lewenstein, Dorothy Cookson, and Gwendolyn Clafin attended a "stunt" party given by the senior class of the Glendale High school at the Masonic temple in Glendale Friday evening.

George Dyer and Herbert Scheunner returned Thursday of last week from a week's stay at the San Francisco exposition.

Mrs. Belle Miller has issued invitations to a party to be given at her home Saturday evening of this week in honor of the younger set.

Mrs. Edward Nettleton of Mayfield avenue recently purchased a new saddle horse.

Rev. Theodore Hopping and family are nicely settled in their pretty bungalow on Briggs avenue.

A business meeting of the La Crescenta Christian Endeavorers will be held at the home of Dorothy Cloud on Friday evening of this week.

Edward N. Nettleton made a business trip to Pasadena on Monday of this week and purchased a roadster. A. Feusenot, owner of the Ville de Paris store of Los Angeles, who is improving a 150-acre homesite at La Crescenta, spent Sunday here looking over the progress made on the work.

TO CURB CRAZY RIVER

The River Des Peres, which recently grew from an insignificant trickle of yellow water to a torrent that engulfed the greater part of St. Louis' West End, caused damage estimated at $1,000,000 and subsided as quickly as it rose, is going to be curbed. A temporary organization of business men of St. Louis has been formed with a view to financing the undertaking and it is expected that the board of aldermen will authorize a bond issue to aid in the building of levees. The levees probably will be decorative, as it is seldom they will be put to the practical purpose of protecting the city from flood.

Eleven persons perished and about 10,000 were made idle by the recent flood. Hundreds were rendered homeless.

WELLS FORETELL STORMS

On the approach of storms the water in the wells of Southern Minnesota, which is ordinarily clear, becomes cloudy or milky; in others it becomes bright yellow or deep red. Among those whose waters become milky before storms are certain wells near Lakeville, in Scott county, and the most pronounced examples of discoloration are in the vicinity of Waterville, in Le Sueur county. The milkiness is due to silt or clay, and the yellow and red colors to fine particles of iron oxide.

TO SAVE THE BABIES

INFANTS DIE IN LONDON SLUMS AT RATE OF 118 PER 1000

(Special Correspondence)

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The war is sapping the manhood of the nation; save the babies.

This cry is invading England today, and almost for the first time in history the government and municipal authorities are giving the subject earnest attention. The terrible toll of the battlefields, which the casualty lists printed in the newspapers emphasize each day, has begun to make England think about the future of the race.

Medical authorities are giving "hints to mothers" through the press, and systematic investigations of infant life in the slums are bringing forth remarkable revelations.

England's slums are the worst in the world, and England's new "baby campaign" has brought this fact home to the government and people.

The medical authorities have just discovered that in Finsbury, the great slum section of London, the birth rate is greater than the average for England and Wales. But why infants here die at the rate of 118 in 1000 has also been brought to light, and corrective measures are being taken.

Among the many obsessions prevailing in this section, as reported by Dr. E. A. Thomas, a municipal investigator, are:

That just before and after child-birth a mother should drink gin; that maternity nurses are not necessary in case of childbirth; that a baby cannot make enough heat to sleep in a cot by itself; that a baby must not be subjected to fresh air, because it will get sore eyes; that it is unlucky to weigh a baby and dangerous to cut its fingernails; that boiled bread is proper food for infants; that milk bottles should be cleansed with kerosene because "kerosene will cleanse anything."

These, according to the investigator, are some of the contributing causes of the excessive infant mortality in England's slums, and all of these half superstitions are kindred to appalling conditions of filth and ignorance. London's slums are dirtier than any others, it is stated, and if an infant lives through the first six months it can live through anything. The fathers of these slum families are laborers, hawkers, beggars, cripples, porters, odd-work men, old men, thieves and the usual raffle. The mothers are charwomen or engaged in like occupations.

But the fathers have largely disappeared from the slums. They have gone to war. The wives have encouraged them to enlist, in many cases because the government's separation allowance comes to more than the husbands can normally earn. With the money the majority of the women buy drink, raise babies to die or be neglected. Moreover, they often pawn the scant few household things for drink.

FOREST TIMBER FOR SALE

The United States Forest service is offering for sale 100,000,000 feet of timber on the Plumas National forest, California. It is located in what is known as the Meadow Valley unit, and is within reach of the Western Pacific railroad. This timber is estimated to cut out 60 per cent sugar and yellow pine. The tract has been cruised and appraised by the forest service and a form of contract drawn up which allows a period of 15 years for the cutting and removal of the timber, exclusive of the time required for the construction of a mill and other improvements. In accordance with the law governing sales from the national forests, only merchantable timber is sold. It is paid for in installments as cut. Title to the land remains with the government, and young trees are protected from fire and other damage in order to insure a second crop.

Full information concerning the above timber and the conditions of sale may be obtained from the district forester, San Francisco, Calif. Bids will be received to and including Nov. 4, 1915.

CHICAGO NEEDED PENNIES

Chicago is the champion consumer of pennies. Her supply of 180,000,000 coppers ran short some time ago and an extra 15,000,000 were sent there from the United States treasury. And still the supply is low. Unlike most subtreasuries, where the supply is usually in excess of the demand, the Chicago United States vault is often short and hurried calls for more are frequently necessary.

Impressive ceremonies were held at Booth & Boyleson's parlors in Los Angeles Saturday afternoon, when all that was mortal of Mrs. Hattie Peters, wife of Frank E. Peters, was consigned to Mother Earth. The services were conducted by Rev. M. M. Eshelman and were attended by a large concourse of relatives and friends.

Mrs. Eustace Benton Moore sang very sweetly, "Lead, Kindly Light" and "Abide With Me." Following the ceremonies the funeral cortège drove to Forest Lawn cemetery, where the remains of this good woman were laid tenderly and lovingly away beneath a mound of beautiful flowers and floral emblems. The pall bearers were W. C. Wattles, A. H. Gaarder, R. S. Todd, Thomas Goither, all near neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Peters, and Messrs. Boutenir and Erbenauer of Los Angeles, old-time friends of Mrs. Peters.
